

What Makes CRUSH an RCO?

CRUSH Recovery Community Organization (RCO) operates a peer-led Recovery Community Center (RCC) and is structured in alignment with nationally recognized Recovery Community Organization principles.

- Not less than 51% of our Board of Directors has lived experience related to substance use disorder recovery.
- We provide non-clinical, peer-based recovery support services.
- We operate independently of treatment providers while collaborating closely with community partners.
- We are committed to multiple pathways of recovery and recovery-oriented systems of care.
- We are governed in a way that ensures recovery voices shape our leadership and strategic direction.

CRUSH is more than a building or a program. As a Recovery Community Organization, we serve as recovery infrastructure for our community — strengthening recovery capital, promoting dignity and empowerment, and ensuring that recovery remains visible, accessible, and community-led.
